

SHARON DAY

From her recent election as Republican National Committee Secretary in January 2009 to a successful history of GOP leadership in Florida, National Committeewoman Sharon Day leads by example and daily sets the bar higher for Republican women at every level.

As Florida's State Chair for the RNC's Women's Coalition, Sharon took this group to new heights as she organized and chaired what became the nation's largest Republican coalition, Florida Women for McCain in 2008.

In January 2006 Sharon was elected by the RNC members to serve as one of eight individuals that select the location of the 2008 National Convention where she also served as the Chairman of the Special Events for the Convention.

Among Sharon's accomplishments on the state level, are several gubernatorial appointments such as: Committee for Election Reform for the State of Florida; the 2008 Florida Commission on the Status of Women and the Broward County Housing Authority Board where she currently serves as its Chairman.

A retired marketing and insurance executive, Sharon began her second "career" in volunteer GOP leadership as the successful president of her local FFRW club, and the rest, as they say, is history.

Sharon and Larry live on the ocean in Ft. Lauderdale. They have two sons and three grandchildren.
