Dear Republican Women:

I want to take this opportunity to welcome you to Central Florida for your 35th Biennial Convention.

Let me also take a moment to thank each of you for your tireless and continuing efforts to elect Republicans at every level of American government. Your hard work and devotion to the GOP has been the cornerstone to our success in the past and will help us achieve substantial victories in the 2010 elections.

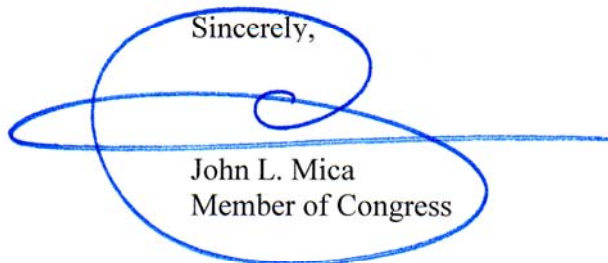

Never before has our country been challenged with such liberal and unpopular proposals as we have witnessed in the last six months from the Democratic Congress and the Obama Administration. With hard work, continued dedication and honoring our commitments to Republican principals of responsible government, we can regain our majority status in Congress. Working together we can achieve those goals of less spending, less taxes and less federal bureaucracy and more individual freedom.

With your fine efforts, recruitment of outstanding GOP candidates and focusing on our positive message, we can elect Republicans at every level.

I look forward to working with you in that regard and extend my best wishes for a successful and productive convention.

With my warm regards and best wishes, I remain,

Sincerely,

John L. Mica
