Laptop Donations Sought for Mongolian Women

In 2008, the Maryland and Virginia Federations hosted and provided training for 16 Mongolian women candidates for political office. Most of these conservative women are leaders in the Democratic Party and ran for national and local elections in 2008. They are gearing up for another election in 2012.

The NFRW recently received a special request from these Mongolian women. Oyungerel Tseveddamba, president of the Democratic Women's Union (DWU) says the organization has an urgent need for 490 used or new laptops.

Tseveddamba says the laptops will make communications more affordable, which will help more Mongolian women run for office.

The DWU's goal is to have laptops by the end of 2011 so that they can be customized with Cyrillic letters and other necessary files prior to the 2012 election.

What can you do to help?

1. Gather old or new donated laptops from friends, neighbors or businesses.
2. Bring the laptops to the NFRW Convention for collection, OR send them directly to U.S. resident Khandsuren Herrera, a DWU member who has volunteered to collect them and organize one large shipment to Mongolia.

Send laptops to:
